The Blue Devils showed marked improvement on both sides of the football in 2008. Quarterback Thaddeus Lewis, an All-ACC choice, spearheaded the offensive attack by throwing for over 2,000 yards and 15 touchdowns as Duke achieved more points and yards than the previous season while lowering its sacks allowed total from 45 to 22. On defense, linebacker Michael Tauiliili became Duke's first All-America pick since 2000 while the Blue Devils trimmed numbers off its 2007 totals in scoring defense (-9.8 points), total defense (-67.4 yards) and touchdowns allowed (-13).

Cutcliffe was named the SEC Coach of the Year in 2003 after leading the Ole Miss Rebels to a 10-3 record including a 31-28 victory over Oklahoma State in the Cotton Bowl.

While at Mississippi, Cutcliffe tutored 2003 SEC Player of the Year Eli Manning. The younger Manning brother was a first team All-America pick as a senior, closed his career with an SEC-record 10,119 passing yards and was the top overall choice in the 2004 NFL Draft.

With Cutcliffe as offensive coordinator, Tennessee scored 30 or more points in 62 of 100 games, posting a 59-3 record in those contests.

In his fourth professional season, he guided the New York Giants to the Super Bowl and earned MVP honors after throwing for 255 yards and two touchdowns in a 17-14 win over the previously unbeaten New England Patriots on February 3, 2008.

Cutcliffe also coached three-time All-SEC running back Deuce McAllister, who set Rebel career records for rushing yards (3,060) and rushing touchdowns (37) and was a first round selection of the New Orleans Saints in the 2001 NFL Draft.

Cutcliffe's recruiting efforts at Ole Miss produced three national award winners in Eli Manning (2003; Maxwell Award), Jon Nichols (2003; Lou Groza Award presented annually to the top kicker in the nation) and Patrick Willis (2006; Butkus Award presented annually to the top linebacker in the country). During his six seasons at the helm of the Rebel program, Mississippi set school single-season records for total offense, passing offense and scoring offense while winning twice at both Auburn and LSU, securing consecutive victories over Florida, and defeating both Arkansas and South Carolina on three occasions.

In the spring of 2005, Cutcliffe joined the coaching staff at Notre Dame, but resigned from the post for health reasons. He then returned to Knoxville prior to the 2006 season. Cutcliffe has helped the Volunteers to a 19-8 record from 2006-07 with two appearances in the Outback Bowl. In 2007, Tennessee went 10-4 with a 6-2 league mark en route to winning the SEC Eastern Division crown. The Tennessee offense allowed an NCAA-low four sacks on the year, and quarterback Erik Ainge earned MVP honors of the Outback Bowl after throwing for 365 yards and two touchdowns as the Volunteers defeated Wisconsin, 21-17. Tennessee running back Arian Foster rushed for 1,193 yards on the year while wide receiver Lucas Taylor reached the 1,000-yard plateau for receiving yards. In addition, offensive guard Anthony Parker garnered first team All-SEC and second team All-America accolades.

The Volunteers compiled an overall record of 173-54-7 (.754) during his 19 seasons on staff. Cutcliffe is the only coach in SEC history to have two quarterbacks throw for over 10,000 career yards while his offenses produced the all-time leading passers, rushers and receivers at both Mississippi and Tennessee.

A native of Birmingham, Ala., Cutcliffe graduated from the University of Alabama in 1976. He got his start in coaching at Banks High School — his alma mater — and spent four years as an assistant coach before becoming the head coach in 1980.

Cutcliffe is married to the former Karen Oran of Harriman, Tenn. They have four children — Chris, Marcus, Katie and Emily — and one daughter-in-law, Molly.

RON MIDDLETON

Associate Head Coach
Special Teams Coordinator/Tight Ends

2nd Season at Duke

Recruiting Area: South Alabama, South Georgia & Florida Panhandle

"Coach Middleton has been around the game for his whole life. He's really a veteran of the game, both playing and coaching, being in the NFL for ten years. I have a lot of respect for him and I know the entire team does, too."

- Duke tight end Brett Huffman

■ Ron Middleton is in his second season as associate head coach and special teams coordinator while coaching the tight ends.

■ In 2008, Middleton directed Duke's special teams units to significant improvement from the previous campaign. The Blue Devils' field goal percentage of .722 (13-18) was the highest since 1997 while Nick Maggio became just the third kicker in school history to successfully convert 25 or more PATs without a miss. In addition, Kevin Jones ranked second in the ACC in punting while Jabari Marshall became Duke's all-time leader in kickoff return yardage.

■ In 2007, Middleton helped the Alabama Crimson Tide to a 7-6 overall record and 30-24 victory over Colorado in the Independence Bowl. Under Middleton's direction, Alabama kicker Leigh Tiffin totalled 111 points — the second-highest single-season point total in Tide history — with a school single-season record 25 field goals along with 36 extra points. In addition, Javier Arenas ranked among the SEC's top 10 performers in both kickoff and punt return average while tight end Nick Walker caught 23 passes for 204 yards and two touchdowns.

■ The former Auburn letterman and 10-year NFL veteran served three seasons (2004-06) as an assistant coach with the Tampa Bay Buccaneers under head coach Jon Gruden. While with the Bucs, Middleton coached the tight ends and assisted with special teams and helped Tampa Bay to the 2005 NFC South Division championship.

■ Middleton spent five seasons (1999-03) on the coaching staff at Mississippi working along side Duke head coach David Cutcliffe. While with the Rebels, Middleton coached the tight ends for three years (1999-01) and running backs for two campaigns (2002-03) and served as the special teams coordinator. Ole Miss participated in four bowl games during Middleton's tenure, and the Atmore, Ala., native mentored kicker Jonathan Nichols, who set 15 school records, earned All-SEC honors and captured the Lou Groza Award as the nation's top placekicker in 2003. That season, Nichols booted 24-of-28 field goal attempts and all 45 of his point after touchdown tries en route to scoring an Ole Miss single-season record 117 points.

■ Also in 2003, Mississippi punter Cody Ridgeway garnered second team All-SEC accolades while the Rebels paced the league in net punting, kickoff returns, field goals, and PAT kicking.

■ Before joining Cutcliffe at Ole Miss, Middleton spent two seasons (1997-98) at Troy, coaching the tight ends, offensive tackles and assisted with special teams. He also spent time in private business, serving as vice president of American Communications.

■ A four-year letterwinning tight end at Auburn from 1982-85, Middleton helped the Tigers to a four-year ledger of 37-12 with four bowl game appearances that produced three victories. In 1983, Auburn posted an 11-1 record, won the SEC title and defeated Michigan, 9-7, in the Sugar Bowl. Middleton earned a degree in pre-law/history from Auburn in 1988 and later received a master's degree in sports and fitness management from Troy in 1998.

■ Middleton's professional playing career spanned 10 seasons with five organizations. Undrafted out of Auburn, he played two years (1986-87) with the Atlanta Falcons before joining the Washington Redskins for the 1988 campaign. Following one season (1989) with the Cleveland Browns, Middleton returned to the Redskins for a four-year tenure that included a 37-24 victory over Buffalo in Super Bowl XXVI. He finished his career playing single campaigns with the Los Angeles Rams (1994) and San Diego Chargers (1995).

■ Middleton, who was a member of the Tampa Bay Buccaneers' training camp coaching staff in 2003 as a part of the NFL's Minority Coaching Fellowship Program, was selected by Gruden in 2006 to attend the NFL's Coaches Career Development Symposium. In addition, Middleton joined with other Tampa Bay coaches to host the 2004 High School Coaching Academy, a one-day clinic designed to elevate the quality of football coaching at the prep level.

■ Middleton and his wife, Mia, are the parents of three children: Ron II, Desmond and Zaria.

MIKE MacINTYRE

Defensive Coordinator

2nd Season at Duke

Recruiting Area: Western North Carolina, North Florida & Central Tennessee

■ Mike MacIntyre is in his second season on the Blue Devil staff and serves as Duke's defensive coordinator.

■ In 2008, Duke's defensive unit allowed 67.4 fewer yards and 9.8 few points per game than the previous season. Headlined by All-ACC honorees Vince Oghobaase and Michael Tauiilili, the Blue Devils registered eight more turnovers while yielding 13 fewer touchdowns as Duke made significant improvement from 2007.

■ Duke's defense last year allowed 23.4 points per game – the lowest total in 20 seasons – and held three opponents to less than 10 points for the first time since 1976.

■ MacIntyre served on David Cutcliffe's staff at Ole Miss from 1999-02, helping the Rebels to a four-year ledger of 29-19 with appearances in the Independence Bowl (1999 & 2002) and Music City Bowl (2000). MacIntyre coached the 1999 and 2000 seasons with the Ole Miss wide receivers before tutoring the defensive secondary in his final two years.

■ While mentoring the Mississippi wide receivers, MacIntyre coached two of the school's top pass-catchers in Cory Peterson and Grant Heard. On the Rebel career charts, Peterson ranks sixth in catches (135) and fifth in yards (1,842) while Heard stands third in receptions (142), third in yards (2,029) and second in receiving touchdowns (16). In 2001 – MacIntyre's first season with the Ole Miss defense – the Rebels led the SEC and ranked fifth nationally in pass defense, allowing just 161.3 yards per game.

■ MacIntyre served the 2007 season as an assistant coach with the NFL's New York Jets, coaching the defensive backs. He spent four seasons (2003-06) as an assistant coach under Bill Parcells with the Dallas Cowboys. During his time with Dallas, the Cowboys posted three winning seasons and earned playoff berths in both 2003 and 2006.

■ While with the Cowboys, MacIntyre coached safety Roy Williams, who was the eighth overall selection in the 2002 NFL Draft following a standout collegiate career at Oklahoma. Williams was selected to the NFL Pro Bowl in all four years that MacIntyre was on the Dallas staff and is one of four safeties in Cowboys history to earn four Pro Bowl berths. MacIntyre also coached cornerback Terrence Newman, who was an NFL All-Rookie choice in 2003 and an alternate for the Pro Bowl one season later.

"When you look at coach MacIntyre, he brings a lot of experience to the table. He's always pushing you. He's always trying to look out for the players."

- Duke safety Matt Daniels

■ MacIntyre got his start in coaching as a graduate assistant at Georgia (1990-91) and then spent the 1992 season as the defensive coordinator at Davidson College.

■ Before joining Cutcliffe at Ole Miss, MacIntyre coached the defensive backs at Temple in 1997-98. Prior to his stint with the Owls, he was at Tennessee-Martin, where he served as co-defensive coordinator from 1993-95 and defensive coordinator in 1996. MacIntyre added recruiting coordinator duties in 1994 and became the assistant head coach in 1995.

■ A 1989 graduate of Georgia Tech with a bachelor's degree in business management, MacIntyre played two seasons (1987-88) at free safety and punt returner for the Yellow Jackets under head coach Bobby Ross. Prior to attending Georgia Tech, MacIntyre played two years at Vanderbilt (1984-85) under his father, George, who served as the head coach of the Commodores from 1979-85. He went on to earn a master's degree in education with an emphasis on sports management from Georgia in 1991.

■ Hobby got his start in coaching in 1995, working with the defensive tackles at Tennessee-Martin. He then served two seasons at Southwest Louisiana as strength and conditioning coach (1996) and defensive tackles coach (1997) before spending one year (1998) at Tennessee as assistant strength and conditioning coach. The 1998 Volunteer squad went 13-0 and won the national championship with a 23-16 victory over Florida State in the Fiesta Bowl.

■ A coaching veteran who has spent time on staffs at three SEC schools, Kurt Roper is in his second season as Duke's offensive coordinator while directing the Blue Devil quarterbacks.

■ In 2008, Roper guided quarterback Thaddeus Lewis to an All-ACC citation. Lewis finished the season ranking second in the league in passing yards per game, total offense per game and touchdown passes while becoming just the third Duke quarterback to throw 10 or more touchdown passes in three consecutive seasons.

In addition, the Blue Devils showed marked improvement in the rushing game (+42.2 yards per game) while allowing 23 fewer sacks than the previous season.

On the Volunteer single-season record charts, Foster's numbers landed him fourth in rushing attempts, tied for fifth in rushing touchdowns and ninth in yards. In addition, he had five 100-yard rushing games on the year and his 98-yard, three-touchdown performance against Georgia helped Tennessee defeat the then 12th-ranked Bulldogs, 35-14. Foster finished his career with 2,964 rushing yards.

■ Roper got his start in coaching at Tennessee, serving as a graduate assistant coach from 1996-98 while working with the Volunteer defensive and special teams units. Among his pupils was record-setting, All-America signal-caller Eli Manning, the 2003 SEC Player of the Year who was the number one overall pick in the 2004 NFL Draft.

■ In 2005, Roper coached the quarterbacks at Kentucky under head coach Rich Brooks.

"Coach Roper is all about execution. He's all about getting better. He's one of the best teachers and toughest coaches I've ever had. He stays on me, and that's what I love about him."

SCOTTIE MONTGOMERY

Wide Receivers

4th Season at Duke

Recruiting Area: South Florida, Central Georgia & Central North Carolina

■ One of the best wide receivers ever to wear a Duke uniform, Scottie Montgomery was hired by head coach David Cutcliffe as an assistant coach to lead the wide receiving corps.

■ A member of the coaching staff at his alma mater since 2006, Montgomery has tutored two of the finest wide receivers in Duke history in Eron Riley and Jomar Wright. Riley, a two-time All-ACC selection, capped an outstanding career in 2008 by catching 61 passes for 693 yards and eight touchdowns. He went on to sign a free agent contract with the NFL's Baltimore Ravens following the season. Wright, a senior captain in 2007, had 56 grabs for 599 yards and five touchdowns during his final campaign. Both players rank among Duke's all-time leaders in career receptions and yards.

■ As a wide receiver for the Blue Devils from 1996-99, Montgomery paced Duke in receiving three straight seasons (1997-99) and twice earned the program's Carmen Falcone Award (1998 & 1999) as the Most Valuable Player. The Cleveland County, N.C., native joins Howard Pitt (1951-53) and Stan Crisson (1961-63) as the only Duke players to lead the program in receiving in three straight years and is one of just five two-time team MVPs in school history.

■ On Duke's all-time pass receiving charts, Montgomery ranks second in receptions (171), fourth in yards (2,379), tied for seventh in 100-yard receiving games (4) and tied for eighth in touchdowns (13). He caught 51 passes in both 1997 and 1999 and registered a career-high 60 receptions as a junior in 1998. The 60 catches marked the most by a Duke player in a single season since All-America Clarkston Hines hauled in 61 passes during the 1989 campaign. Hines and Montgomery are the only Duke players to post three straight seasons with at least 50 receptions and 600 yards.

■ Montgomery's name also is etched into the Duke record book for longest plays, ranking tied for second for pass completions with an 88-yard catch from Bobby Campbell against Vanderbilt in 1998 and fourth under kickoff returns with a 99-yard return versus Wake Forest in 1999. Montgomery ranks fifth on Duke's all-time chart for both kickoff returns (63) and kickoff return yards (1,515), while his 4,188 career all-purpose yards rank as the third-highest total in school history.

■ During his senior campaign in 1999, he established the school standard for all-purpose yards in a season with 1,565 — a mark that was broken in 2001 when Chris Douglas amassed 1,849 yards. Montgomery continues to hold two of Duke's top 10 single-game totals for all-purpose yardage with 262 versus Vanderbilt in 1998 (7th) and 250 against Virginia in 1999 (10th). In the Vanderbilt contest, he registered 243 receiving yards, a total that stands fourth on Duke's chart for single-game performances.

"Coach Montgomery is the perfect example of what is great about Duke Football. He's accomplished what we all are striving for - earn a Duke degree and play in the NFL."

- Eron Riley, 2008 All-ACC wide receiver

DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS

KEVIN WHITE

Vice President and Director of Athletics
Adjunct Professor of Business
Alma Mater: St. Joseph's College '72

Kevin M. White was named Duke University's vice president and director of athletics on May 31, 2008. He also serves as an adjunct professor of business administration at the university.

White, 58, joined the Duke family after leading Notre Dame's athletics program to success both on the playing fields and in the classroom from 2000-08. He also has held a number of prominent national leadership roles within intercollegiate athletics, including his service in 2006-07 as president of the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics (NACDA) and in 2005-06 as president of the Division I-A Athletic Directors Association.

Guided by the Strategic Plan that was approved by Duke's Board of Trustees in April of 2008, White made an immediate impact on Duke Athletics. He reshaped the organization into a more efficient and modern department; strengthened ties to both campus and community constituents through consistent outreach efforts; successfully oversaw Duke's fundraising efforts during an economic downturn; completed partnerships with major corporate entities to enhance revenue streams; commissioned a master facilities plan to position Duke well into the 21st Century; and emphasized a stronger commitment to the university's intramural, club and recreational sports programs.

In his first year at Duke, White oversaw a program that won a national championship (women's tennis) – the school's 10th overall – and four ACC titles (men's basketball, men's lacrosse, women's tennis and volleyball). Duke placed 17th in the 2009 Learfield Sports Directors' Cup standings, which determines an institution's all-around strength in intercollegiate athletics. The Blue Devils' 891.80 points in the all-sports competition were the third-most for the school, and it was the sixth consecutive year Duke has ended among the nation's top 20 programs. Six Blue Devil teams ranked among the nation's top 10 teams during their regular seasons and two – men's basketball and women's tennis – reached No. 1. In all, 13 Duke teams advanced to postseason competition in 2008-09.

Individually, 27 student-athletes earned All-America, 39 All-ACC and 26 All-Region honors in 2008-09. Duke boasted two NCAA individual champions in Becca Ward (women's fencing, saber) and Mallory Cecil (women's tennis) and six Blue Devil athletes were individual ACC champions.

Academically, Duke teams continued their strong performances as 25 of 26 Blue Devil varsity teams earned grade point averages of 3.0 or better during the 2009 spring semester, marking the first time in Duke Athletics history that occurred. A total of 429 Duke student-athletes registered a 3.0 or higher grade-point average during the 2008-09 campaign. Former women's tennis player Parker Goyer was a Rhodes Scholar award winner, while track athlete Sally Liu earned a prestigious Marshall Scholarship.

In two key elements in tracking a department's academic success, Duke ranked among the nation's best again. Duke posted a 97% Graduation Success Rate (GSR) and 19 teams achieved a 100% GSR. Twelve Blue Devil teams were ranked in the top 10% of their respective sport in the most recent Academic Performance Rate (APR) Report. Duke had the only football program in the ACC to qualify for this recognition and was one of just three schools from the six BCS conferences honored. Four Blue Devils received ACC Postgraduate Scholarships -- Amanda Blumenherst (golf), Kim Imbesi (lacrosse), Melissa Mang (tennis) and Peter Truszkowski (fencing).

Under White, Duke has continued its focus on outreach to the local community. Modeling the NCAA CHAMPS/Life Skills program's commitment to service, learning projects and outreach, close to 500 Duke student-athletes across the department participated in a combined effort of more than 1,300 community service hours (based only on activities and events coordinated through and reported to Student-Athlete Development during the 2008-09 year).

White, who holds a Ph.D. in education, has taught graduate-level classes since 1982 and currently teaches a sports business course in Duke's Fuqua School of Business as part of Duke's MBA program.

In August 2003, SI.com (the Sports Illustrated web site) listed White, then at Notre Dame, third in its rankings of the most powerful people in college football. In January 2004, Sporting News listed him in its Power 100 as third among five names in the "front office" category (and the lone college athletics director among the 100).

White currently is a representative with the football Bowl Championship Series. He previously served on numerous NCAA committees, including being an ex-officio member of the NCAA Committee on Academic Performance and a member of its Penalty and Rewards subcommittee. Additionally, White was part of the NCAA Coalition on Intercollegiate Athletics (COIA) that dealt with academics, fiscal reform and student-athlete well-being.

Given his background and success, it is not surprising that 16 current or former directors of athletics were mentored by White. That impressive list includes Jim Sterk of Washington State, Tom Boeh of Ohio University and Fresno State, Ian McCaw of Northeastern, Massachusetts and Baylor, Bruce Van De Velde previously of Utah State and Iowa State, Herman Frazier previously of Hawaii, Rudy Keeling formerly of Emerson and now commissioner of the Eastern College Athletic Conference (ECAC), Scott Devine of St. Mary's College (Md.), Tim Van Alstine of Western Illinois, Mark Wilson of Tennessee Tech, Bubba Cunningham of Ball State and Tulsa, Sandy Barbour (who followed him at Tulane) of California-Berkeley, Jim Phillips of Northern Illinois and Northwestern, Bernard Muir of Georgetown and Delaware, Sandy Hatfield-Clubb of Drake, Vic Cegles of Long Beach State, and Norwood Teague of Virginia Commonwealth.

Prior to joining Notre Dame in 2000, White served as athletic director at Arizona State University, Tulane University, the University of Maine and Loras College in Iowa, where he originated the National Catholic Basketball Tournament.

Before becoming an administrator, White served as head track and field coach at Southeast Missouri State (1981-82) and assistant cross country and track and field coach at Central Michigan (1976-80). He began his coaching career at Gulf High School in New Port Richey, Fla., coaching cross country and track and assisting in football and wrestling.

White earned his Ph.D. from Southern Illinois University in 1983 with an emphasis on higher education administration. In 1985, he completed postdoctoral work at Harvard University's Institute for Educational Management. He earned his master's degree in athletics administration from Central Michigan University in 1976 and his bachelor's degree in business administration in 1972 from St. Joseph's College in Rensselaer, Ind., where he also competed as a sprinter.

White and his wife, Jane, a former college track and field coach, have five children and eight grandchildren.
