After elevating Michigan State to one of the nation's elite programs, Joanne P. McCallie was formally introduced as the Head Women's Basketball Coach at Duke University on Friday, April 20, 2007 in Cameron Indoor Stadium. She became the fourth head coach in Blue Devil history and secured her "Dream Job."

McCallie made her way to Durham via Michigan State where she spent the past seven seasons as head coach, leading the Spartans to a 149-75 mark. She led Michigan State to five straight NCAA Tournament appearances, four straight 20-win seasons and an appearance in the NCAA Championship game in 2005. She molded Michigan State basketball into one of the elite programs in the nation, with an 81-23 record over the last three years.

McCallie, 42, led the Spartans to a 24-9 record this past season, tied for the second-best total in school history. Michigan State advanced to the second round of the NCAA Tournament, marking a school-record fifth straight NCAA appearance. Along the way, McCallie's squad beat two ranked conference teams on the road, at No. 13 Purdue and at No. 4 Ohio State. The Spartans beat all 10 conference teams during the league slate for the first time in program history. The team's 13-3 conference record was the second-best in program history and placed third in the Big Ten.

Over the summer of 2006, McCallie guided the USA Basketball U20 team to a 5-0 record and a gold medal in the FIBA Americas Championships in Mexico City. The squad outscored its opponents by 62 points per game and set 28 U20 records in the event. McCallie also coached the FIBA U21 World Championship team in Moscow, Russia this past summer from June 29 - July 8, where she led the USA squad to an 8-0 record and won the gold medal. Her team of college stars, including Blue Devil junior Abby Waner, registered a 30.0 average margin of victory during the championship.

In 2005-06, she led the Spartans to their third straight 20-win campaign - a program first - with a 24-10 overall record. MSU finished in a tie for third in the conference standings at 11-5, McCallie's second-best league finish at MSU, and advanced to the semifinals of the Big Ten Tournament for the third consecutive year.

The 24 victories in 2005-06 were the second most in a single season in school history. All of this was done while playing arguably the toughest schedule in school history, as MSU matched up against 11 NCAA Tournament teams and six teams ranked in the top 10. The Spartans posted victories over No. 16 Oklahoma and No. 8 Rutgers, who went on to be No. 2 and No. 3 seeds, respectively, in the NCAA Tournament. The Spartans were ranked in the top 20 all season, peaking at No. 9.

March is when it matters most, and McCallie guided MSU to its school-record fourth straight appearance in the NCAA Tournament and second straight berth in the Sweet 16 in 2005-06. The Spartans, a No. 4 seed, defeated 13th-seeded Wisconsin-Milwaukee in the first round and fifth-seeded Kentucky in the second round to earn a spot in the Bridgeport Regional. McCallie finished with a 9-5 in NCAA Tournament games at MSU, including an 8-3 record the past three years.

After guiding MSU to back-to-back NCAA Tournaments and upper-division Big Ten finishes in the previous two seasons, McCallie led Michigan State to a banner year in 2004-05. Michigan State advanced to its first National Championship game, won a school-record 33 games (10 more than the previous record), won a school-record 14 Big Ten games while sharing just its second Big Ten regular-season championship, won its first Big Ten Tournament title, finished 13-0 at home, had a school-record 17-game winning streak, and beat 13 nationally-ranked teams, including four teams ranked No. 1, No. 2 or No. 3 in the nation, including third-ranked Notre Dame, top-ranked Stanford, third-ranked Tennessee, 11th-ranked Connecticut, 11th and 12th-ranked Minnesota (twice), second-ranked Ohio State, 17th-ranked Boston College, 18th-ranked Vanderbilt, 18th-ranked Iowa, 23rd-ranked Penn State and 24th-ranked Purdue.

For her efforts, McCallie was named National Coach of the Year by the Associated Press, Basketball Times, and Nike, as well as being voted Big Ten Coach of the Year by the league's media. It marked the first time an MSU women's basketball coach has been named national coach of the year and the second time a Spartan head coach earned the conference's coach of the year award. McCallie was also named the 2005 Basketball Coaches Association of Michigan College Coach of the Year.

The 2004-05 Spartans burst onto the national scene with non-conference victories at No. 3 Notre Dame and at No. 11 UConn and never slowed down en route to a 33-4 record. MSU moved into position for a Big Ten title with a 66-64 victory over No. 2 Ohio State in a nationally-televised game in front of a school-record crowd of 14,066.

After earning the program's first No. 1 seed in the NCAA Tournament, the Spartans marched to the Final Four, beating No. 1-ranked Stanford 76-69 in the Kansas City Regional Final. In Indianapolis at the Final Four, MSU staged an amazing second-half rally against No. 3 Tennessee, tying a Final Four record by overcoming a 16-point deficit during a 68-64 victory that propelled MSU into the title game.

In 2003-04, McCallie guided MSU to its first 20-win season since 1996-97 and just the fifth in school history. The Spartans, who finished 22-9 overall, advanced to the second round of the NCAA Tournament after a 72-60 win over Arizona in the opening round. MSU won 10 road games and six conference road games for the first time in school history, while also being nationally ranked for the first time since the 1996-97 season. The Spartans climbed as high as 15th in the ESPN/USA Today coaches poll, marking MSU's highest-ever national ranking at the time. The 22 wins tied for the second most in a single season for MSU in school history.

Michigan State recorded a 10-6 mark in the Big Ten that season, tying for fourth in the conference for a second straight year, and marking the first time in MSU history that the Spartans recorded double-digit wins in the Big Ten for two consecutive seasons.

During the 2002-03 season, McCallie guided a depleted MSU squad to a 17-12 overall record and its first NCAA Tournament appearance since 1997, as the Spartans earned a No. 8 seed in the East Regional. Despite numerous injuries that left MSU with a core of just six players getting nearly all of the minutes, she led Michigan State to its best Big Ten finish since 1997, as MSU tied for fourth in the league with a 10-6 record. The Spartans improved by four wins over the previous season's Big Ten win total - more than any other team in the conference.

Michigan State closed the 2001-02 season with a 19-13 record, and advanced to the semifinals of the Women's National Invitation Tournament for the first time in school history. The 2001-02 season saw MSU increase its win total from the previous season by nine victories, and included wins against three nationally-ranked opponents.

MSU finished the 2000-01 season, McCallie's first in East Lansing, with a 10-18 overall mark, as the Spartans struggled with injuries all year.

Under Coach McCallie, MSU saw its fan base increase dramatically. The team set season attendance records in four out of the last five seasons, including a school-record average of 6,787 fans in 2005-06, which ranked 10th in the nation. The Spartans were second in the Big Ten last season with an average of 6,646 a game and ninth in the NCAA. While hosting the First and Second Rounds of the NCAA Tournament for the first time in school history on March 18 and 20, 2007, Michigan State attracted 21,340 fans for the six-game event, the most of any of the eight preliminary round sites. All of MSU's top 15 single-game crowds in program history came during Coach P's tenure, including a school-record 14,066 against Ohio State in a nationally televised game on Feb. 20, 2005. Prior to her arrival at MSU, the women's basketball program averaged only 1,506 fans per game in 1999-2000.

McCallie, who was named to the Michigan State post on March 27, 2000, became just the fourth head coach in Michigan State women's basketball history.

A native of Brunswick, Maine, McCallie owns a career mark of 316-148 during her 15-year stint as a head coach at Maine and Michigan State. As a coach and player, she has led her teams to 13 conference titles, 16 NCAA Tournament appearances, five NCAA Sweet 16 appearances, four NCAA Elite Eight appearances, three NCAA Final Four appearances and three NCAA Championship game appearances.

During her eight-year career at Maine, McCallie guided the Black Bears to seven straight 20-win campaigns, including a 20-11 overall record in 1999-2000 and their sixth-straight NCAA Tournament appearance. She was named coach of the year on three occasions, twice in the North Atlantic Conference (1995 and 1996) and once in the America East (1999).

Prior to becoming head coach at Maine in 1992-93, McCallie was an assistant coach at Auburn from 1988-92. As the team's primary recruiter, she helped sign the fourth-ranked class in the nation in 1990-91 and the 16th-ranked class in the nation in 1991-92. While at Auburn, McCallie and the Tigers appeared in two national championship games and made an appearance in the NCAA Elite Eight.

The former Joanne Palombo, prior to getting married to John McCallie, played her collegiate basketball at Northwestern from 1984-87. She still ranks seventh in Wildcat history with 378 career assists. As a senior, she was an All-Big Ten honorable mention selection and helped lead the Wildcats to the second round of the NCAA Tournament. McCallie also was named Academic All-Big Ten First-Team as a senior.

McCallie graduated from Northwestern in 1987 with a degree in political science and earned a master's degree in business administration from Auburn in 1990.

Coach P is an active speaker within the community and for women's athletics. At MSU, McCallie created the "Choice Not Chance" philosophy, which focuses on making the correct choices in life. The philosophy has been widely used by McCallie, her staff and players, who have been very active in the area schools speaking about "CNC".

McCallie's community service includes working with the Big Brothers and Big Sisters "Jump" program and serving as the honorary chair of their annual golf outing; serving as the Honorary Chair for the Haven House — a shelter for homeless families in East Lansing, Mich.; serving as the Honorary Chair for the 2001 Crop

Walk and the 2001-04 Memory Walks for Alzheimer's; serving on the Board of Directors of the Governor's Council on Physical Fitness and Women Working Wonders; and holding the Joanne P. McCallie Golf Challenge benefiting children and adolescents with cancer.

McCallie was also an Honorary Chair for the MSU/Mid-Michigan Children's Initiative. She was a driving force behind the creation of MMCI, an MSU initiative designed to form partnerships within the Lansing area that benefits the health and well-being of children, focusing on research, education and clinical care.

McCallie has already made her presence felt out in the Durham and neighboring communities in her short time at Duke. She has spoken at the Durham Sports Club, Durham Chamber of Commerce - Professional Women's Network, the Duke Club of Washington, D.C., The Duke Children's Hospital and the Hays Barton United Methodist Church.

While at Maine, she organized an event called "Realizing the Dream: Celebrating Women in Athletics" that featured speakers Dr. Donna Lopiano and Sheryl Swoopes. During the 1997-98 season, Dana Rae Warren filmed a documentary of the Maine women's basketball season. McCallie was inducted into the New England Basketball Hall of Fame in 2004.

McCallie was named a conference captain by the Women's Basketball Coaches Association in 2002. In October of 2005, McCallie was inducted in the Maine Sports Legends Hall of Honors for her outstanding coaching efforts.

The McCallie family includes husband John, daughter Madeline (Maddie) and son John Wyatt (Jack). The family resides in Durham, N.C.

So What Does the P Stand For?

Those who have not known Joanne P. McCallie long may wonder why her players and those who know her well call her "Coach P." The "P" stands for Palombo, her maiden name. McCallie is proud of her Italian heritage, and early in her career found many similarities between herself and coaching legend Jim Valvano. She reasoned that if there could be a "Jimmy V", why not a "Joanne P?" Therefore, during her years as Joanne Palombo, she became known as "Coach P", and after her marriage to John McCallie, she decided to keep the "P" as a middle initial. But old habits die hard, so players, coaches, staff members and friends continue to refer to her simply as "Coach P."

The McCallie Family

The McCallie family not only emphasizes education to the young women on the Duke team, but their own accomplishments further demonstrate their commitment to academics. Head coach Joanne P. McCallie holds a bachelor's degree in political science from Northwestern and a master's degree from Auburn in business administration.

John McCallie, Ph.D, Joanne's husband, was an Economics professor at MSU. But it should come as no surprise that the McCallies are well-educated, as the name McCallie has long been synonymous with the word "education." The McCallie School (pictured to the right) is a college preparatory school for boys located on Missionary Ridge near Chattanooga, Tenn. It was founded in 1905 by Spencer Jarnagin McCallie and James Park McCallie, the grandfather and great-uncle, respectively, of John McCallie.

The McCallie School accepts young men with above average to exceptional academic abilities and those students matriculate at some of the best colleges and universities in the nation. In recent years, the school has been recognized for its innovative educational programs and its overall standards of excellence. Recently, the Atlanta Journal/Constitution called McCallie "one of the leading secondary educational institutions in the United States."

In addition, John McCallie's great-aunt, Grace McCallie, was one of three founders of the Girls Preparatory School in 1906, also in Chattanooga. The school prepares girls for college through academic training, and instills in them high principles of honesty, integrity and consideration for others.

Maddie (far left) served as a manager for the 2007 USA Basketball U21 World Championship team that was led by Coach P.

What They Are Saying About Joanne P. McCallie

"As a team, making it to the National Championship game my senior year was a dream come true. I knew Coach P, I had faith in her and I trusted her. Coming into Michigan State, she had such a great record at Maine. I was happy and proud to be part of the team to rebuild the program. She is very intense and a very good coach. She taught me a lot both on and off the court. I grew so much as a person during my four years at college. We have a good relationship off the floor as well. It was good that I came to Michigan State because I learned a lot and grew as a player."

Kristen Haynie, Michigan State Graduate, '05

Current member of the Sacramento Monarchs of the WNBA

"Joanne P. McCallie has had a tremendous impact on me becoming a head coach. She allowed me to take ownership in the program. MSU felt like OUR team, and whatever role that I had always seemed the most important. She showed me how to be the best person, the best mom, the best wife and the best coach all at the same time. I find her to be one of the most remarkable head coaches in the country. How fortunate is Duke University to get a person like Joanne P. McCallie. She is the epitome of an amazing coach, wife and mother. I have so much admiration for her as a mentor and a friend, and I am just blessed to know such a great person."

Felisha Legette-Jack, Indiana Head Coach

Assistant at Michigan State under Coach McCallie from 2000-02

"Joanne McCallie is a terrific choice to take over the head coaching responsibilities of the Duke women's basketball program. We welcome her to the Duke basketball family and look forward to working with her for years to come. I was able to meet with Coach McCallie during the hiring process and was tremendously impressed with her coaching resume as well as her commitment to the community."

Mike Krzyzewski, Duke Men's Basketball Head Coach

"Joanne took the Michigan State women's program to another level. She's an intense competitor and demands the best effort from her players. She understands what it takes to produce at a championship level."

Tom Izzo, Michigan State Men's Basketball Head Coach

"Coach McCallie is a fiery, intense and determined competitor. Duke fans will see a very similar offensive style, up tempo, three-point shooting and fast break offense. Defensively she is known for her match-up zone but she has never had the kind of talent and athleticism she will inherit with this job, including her NCAA Final Four team. Whether she will play that match-up zone, which has been the cornerstone of her defense is yet to be determined."

Debbie Antonelli, National Television Analyst

"Coach Palombo was the most dynamic person I came into contact with during my recruiting process. I trusted her as a person and as a coach more than any other coach. I knew she was a winner and I knew that she would challenge me as a player and as a person more than any other coach. She was the reason I chose to stay home and play for the University of Maine-I believed in her vision."

Played at Maine from 1994-98 under Coach P

"The Duke women's basketball program will not miss a beat with the hiring of Joanne P. McCallie. Her commitment to the student-athlete, her love of the game and her proven success will secure Duke's status as a perennial contender."

Carol Stiff, Senior Director of Programming and Acquisitions at ESPN

"My friend Joanne McCallie; what an unbelievable hire for Duke. They have a coach that will be able to continue the path of taking Duke to win a championship. She is an accomplished recruiter and her style of play will fit Duke well. She has a wonderful personality with fans, friends, players and the kids will love playing for Coach McCallie. She did a great job of resurrecting the Michigan State program and making them into a national power. I am so happy that she is going to Duke."

Nancy Lieberman, National Television Analyst

"For her coaching staff, players and her team she gets the most out of the talent she has and has been able to be able to work with. She has had some tremendous talent that she recruited and gotten them to work at a very high level. With the types of players and the tradition that Duke has garnered over the last number of years with Gail [Goostenkors] being there, Joanne is not only going to continue that tradition but she is going to bring it to another level. The Final Fours and championship games they have played in, Joanne will begin to put rings on players' fingers as well as fill up the trophy case with pride, commitment, excellence and National Championships. She is an awesome hire, unbelievable hire, family oriented, teacher of the game, mentor and someone who will do Duke University very proud in the present time and on into the future during her coaching career there."

Darren Bennett, Skidmore Head Women's Basketball Coach

Assistant coach under Coach McCallie in 2003-04 at Michigan State

"Joanne has established herself as a proven winner in the USA Basketball women's program. She has demonstrated success in developing the individual skills of the elite level athlete and then molding those elite level athletes into a gold medal winning team."

Carol Callan, USA Basketball Assistant Executive Dir., Women's Program

"Joanne is an outstanding coach with tremendous work ethic and a fierce desire to win. She has a strong love for the game of basketball and her success has been fueled by her ability to motivate, teach, and communicate with her players, both on and off the court. Joanne has been successful in every stop of her career - as a player, assistant coach and head coach - and had the opportunity to coach in two Final Fours as an assistant at Auburn and also as a head coach two years ago. Joanne is now entering the biggest competitive arena in her professional life and possesses all of the qualities necessary to be successful in her new endeavor at Duke University."

Joe Ciampi, Former Auburn Head Women's Basketball Coach

"Coach McCallie is an outstanding fit for Duke University. She brings tremendous enthusiasm, incredible integrity and a great competitive spirit. The players will really enjoy working with her and she will bring out the best in them. She is one of the stars of college basketball."

Sam Dixon, Furman University Head Coach

Assistant Coach under Coach McCallie for 2006 USA Basketball U20 and 2007 USA Basketball U21 teams

"As an MSU alum, I will miss Coach P. The fans of Duke University women's basketball will soon discover the great gem they now have in Coach McCallie. Without any doubt she is already one of the stars of her profession and her tremendous competitive spirit assures that her program will shine just as bright for years to come."

COACHING STAFF

Al Brown

Assistant Coach

1st Season At Duke • Purdue, '64

Al Brown will be entering his fourth season along the side of Joanne P. McCallie and the first on the Duke University staff after being hired on May 2, 2007. Since arriving in the coaching world 30 years ago, Brown has produced numerous winning teams and is thought of in the coaching world as having one of the best basketball minds in the game today.

He has been a part of three NCAA Championships, four NCAA runner-up teams, eight NCAA Final Four squads and 16 NCAA Tournaments. He has coached men's and women's basketball at 10 different schools including Purdue, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Western Michigan, Ball State, South Carolina, Tennessee, Cleveland State and Michigan State since taking his first assistant coaching position at Purdue in 1967.

His record in women's basketball speaks for itself as his squads have won 80.0 percent of their games, advanced to the NCAA Tournament in 11 of the 13 years, won three NCAA titles, appeared in the NCAA Championship game with two different squads a total of six times and won 79.0 percent of league contests.

Brown is known for his video breakdowns and opponent analysis, as well as his on-court teaching expertise, which has proven to be a valuable contribution to the success of every basketball team he has ever coached. He was recognized for his coaching expertise when he was named one of the top assistant coaches in the country in a poll conducted by Women's Basketball Journal.

He has had an interesting and unique career as he is the only coach in the history of intercollegiate athletics to have played an active role in national championship games in three different sports, including five appearances as a coach in the NCAA Women's Basketball Championship game. Brown is also the only coach to coach men's and women's basketball in the Southeastern Conference and the Big Ten Conference at two different schools in each conference. Also, he is the only coach in college basketball history to coach in the men's (1969, Purdue vs. UCLA) and women's national championship game (Tennessee, 1996-98, 2000; Michigan State, 2005).

Brown has 11 years of college coaching experience in the women's game and 16 years in the men's game. On the men's side, he has coached five teams at two schools in the NCAA Tournament, advancing to the Sweet 16 three times, the Elite Eight twice and the final game once.

Brown was the motivational speaker for the Tennessee football team throughout the 1998 season. Coach Phillip Fulmer, the head coach at Tennessee, asked him to speak to the team in Tempe, Ariz., before the Fiesta Bowl National Championship game. Brown was on the field in the coaching box during the Vols' victory over Florida State in the title game.

During his seven years in the women's program at Tennessee (1995-2002), the Lady Vols went to the NCAA Final Four five times, playing in the national title game four times, and won three national championships in a row (1996-98), which is an NCAA record. Over that seven-year period, the Lady Vols went 224-29, good for a winning percentage of 89 percent. He was a part of five consecutive Southeastern Conference championship teams, during which time Tennessee posted a league record of 67-3.

During his first year at Michigan State, the Spartans won the Big Ten regular season and tournament championships, went to the NCAA Championship game for the first time in school history, and won a school-record 33 games. Overall, during his three years at Michigan State the squad produced an 81-23 record and advanced to the NCAA Tournament each of those three years. In the Big 10, the Spartans notched a 38-10 mark and finished no lower than third each year.

A 1964 graduate of Purdue, Brown was a three-year letterwinner on the Boilermaker basketball team before making the switch to the coaching ranks as an assistant coach with his alma mater in 1967. Brown served three seasons at Purdue before moving to Ball State where he was an assistant for five seasons (1977-1982).

He then spent five years (1982-87) as the head coach at Ball State. His 1986 Cardinal team had a record-setting year, posting 21 wins en route to the Mid-American Conference tournament championship and the school's second berth in the NCAA Tournament. The first time Ball State advanced to the NCAA Tournament was when Coach Brown was an assistant.

After spending the 1987-88 season assisting at Western Michigan, Brown served on the staff at Minnesota for three years (1988-1991), where the Gophers advanced to two NCAA Sweet 16's and one NCAA Final Eight, before moving on to the men's program at Tennessee for the 1991-92 and 1992-93 seasons.

Coach Brown has recruited and coached some outstanding players. The first Walter Byers Scholarship winner and the 1984 Naismith Award winner, an award given to the best player in the nation under six feet, were two of Brown's recruits. He has coached 10 NBA players and 10 women who are playing in the WNBA, plus numerous players who have played overseas.

Brown and his wife, Karen, have one son, Edwin. Edwin and his wife, Erica, reside in Hopkinton, Mass., with their son Simon.

Joe Allewa

Director of Athletics

28th Season At Duke • Lehigh, '75

Duke Director of Athletics Joe Allewa is in his 10th year leading one of the nation's most prestigious athletic programs. He has been at the University for 31 years.

Allewa has overseen unprecedented success and growth in the department that includes propelling Duke into a fixture among the nation's top all-around programs, posting graduation rates that consistently rank among the best in the country, enhancing community outreach efforts, establishing record-setting fundraising levels, initiating sizeable facilities construction and renovation, and increasing the department staff size by nearly 40 percent.

"Joe is unwaveringly loyal to Duke and to the educational values that undergird all of our programs, including athletics," Duke President Richard H. Brodhead said following Allewa's five-year reappointment to the position in August 2007.

Brodhead further explained the review confirmed that Allewa was well-recognized for sustaining high standards of integrity in the athletics program, his championing of Duke's concept of the student-athlete, the quality of coaches he has hired, and the high level of success that has been achieved across athletic programs at Duke under Allewa's leadership.

During Allewa's tenure as director of athletics, every one of Duke's 26 varsity sports and the Health, Physical Education and Recreation department have benefited from increased commitment. Simply put, the Duke Department of Athletics has never been as successful, whether in competition, the classroom, or the community.

Duke athletics has flourished under Allewa's direction. The Blue Devils finished fifth in the 2005 Division I Directors' Cup, which rates athletics departments based on the success of its teams. Duke followed up its impressive 2005 performance with an eighth-place finish in 2006 and an 11th-place showing in 2007. Prior to 1998-99, Allewa's first full year as director of athletics, Duke had never placed higher than 21st in the Directors' Cup standings. Since then, Duke has enjoyed six top 20 finishes, including four in succession (2004-07).

In the 2006 National Collegiate Scouting Association Power Rankings that combine a school's Directors' Cup finish, its athletic graduation rates and its academic ranking in U.S. News and World Report, Duke was the top-ranked Division I school in the nation, ahead of Stanford, Notre Dame, Princeton and Harvard. Duke also finished first in this listing in 2005 and second in 2004.

Six Duke teams — men's basketball in 2001, women's golf in 1999, 2002, 2005, 2006, and 2007 — have won national championships since Allewa's appointment as director of athletics. Since Allewa took over the helm at Duke, 44 Blue Devil teams notched ACC Championships, the second-highest total among ACC schools since 1997-98. Duke has won at least four ACC Championships in eight of the nine years Allewa has been the director of athletics (not counting spring of 1997-98). Eight of Duke's top 10 seasons in regards to conference championships are under Allewa, including the school-record seven league titles in 2000-01.

While continuing its excellence in competition, Duke has not lost sight of its obligation to educate its student-athletes. Duke's graduation rates for its student-athletes continue to rank among the best in the nation (its most recent Federal Graduation Rate was 91%). In 2007, Duke finished first among league schools on the ACC Academic Honor Roll for the 20th consecutive year (394 Blue Devil student-athletes maintained a grade point average of 3.0 or better in 2006-07). During the 2006-07 academic year, 20 of Duke's 26 athletic teams posted grade point averages of 3.0 or higher. Allewa has augmented the academic support budget that is now 10 times higher in 2006-07 than it was during the 1997-98 year.

Additionally, Duke student-athletes continue to reach out to the local community through several programs such as Duke's award-winning Verizon Read with the Blue Devils. The program now enters its 16th year and assists Durham teachers by providing reading incentives to third and fourth graders. Other partnerships include SAAC (Student Athletic Advisory Committee) members serving in the Urban Ministries Soup Kitchen, adopting families through Project Share at Christmas, hosting students from the Oxford Housing Authority at home football games, visiting families the Ronald McDonald House, and partnering with E.K. Powe Elementary School to host the annual Winter Fun Day in February of each year. There are dozens more outreach programs in which Duke student-athletes are involved. In 2006-07, Duke student-athletes volunteered nearly 3,000 community outreach hours.

Fundraising under Allewa has reached extensive heights. In nine years, Allewa and his fundraising team raised more than $173 million in gifts and funded more than $85 million in new facilities or renovation. Annual giving to the Iron Dukes has increased 50 percent since the year 2000, including a record $11 million in the fiscal year ending in June 2007.

New facilities built under Allewa's watch include the Yoh Football Center, Sheffield Tennis Center, Schwartz-Butters Athletic Center, Ambler Tennis Stadium, Karcher-Ingram Golf Center, Rod Myers Teaching Center, the Skandalaris Fieldhouse at Koskinen Stadium and the fieldhouse at Williams Field. Facility upgrades have been made to Cameron Indoor Stadium, Wallace Wade Stadium, Jack Coombs Stadium, Koskinen Stadium, Williams Field, Murray Athletic Building, and Brooks Field at the football practice facility.

The latest major facility upgrades include the multi-million dollar Michael W. Krzyzewski Center Dedicated to Athletic and Academic Excellence, which will house three major components — the Jack Campbell Academic Support Center, the University Events Center providing all areas of the campus with a premier event space and a basketball training complex for both the men's and women's teams. Included in the facility will be vastly expanded academic space, new weight rooms, team and individual video rooms, meeting rooms and banquet facilities able to accommodate 300 people. Groundbreaking on the 56,000 square-foot center occurred in September 2006 and its completion date is January 2008.

Allewa also established a visionary Athletics Advisory Board in 1999 consisting of influential business and sports leaders throughout the country with interests in the Duke Athletics program.

Allewa is active on the national collegiate athletics scene, serving on the Football Bowl Certification Committee and the Gatorade Advisory Board. He sits on Atlantic Coast Conference committees on Finance, Infractions and Penalties, Television (chair), Football, and Men's Basketball. At Duke, Allewa is part of the Undergraduate Leadership Group, the Committee on Undergraduate Affairs and the University Athletic Council. Additionally, Allewa recently completed his service on the NCAA Division I Championships/Competition Cabinet.

A native of Suffern, N.Y., Allewa joined the athletics staff in 1980 and was named assistant director of athletics in July 1986. He has also served as assistant director of the Iron Dukes during his tenure. In 1987, Allewa was promoted to associate director of athletics, assuming a great deal of responsibility for all day-to-day operations of the department. He also served as the athletics business manager during Duke's rapid growth from the mid-1980s until 1998.

Allewa played football and baseball at Lehigh and was football captain in 1974. He received his bachelor's degree in 1975 majoring in finance and served as a graduate assistant football coach for Lehigh, earning an MBA in 1976. Allewa began serving Duke in 1976 working for the vice president for business and finance.

He has played a key role in Durham's community sports scene over the last several years. He started Little League Baseball in Durham over 15 years ago, and also began the American Legion baseball program in the area. Allewa is a member of the North Carolina American Legion Hall of Fame, Suffern H.S. Hall of Fame and the Rockland County Hall of Fame.

Allewa and his wife, Annie, have two sons, J.D. (Duke, '01) and Jeff (Duke, '03) along with a daughter, Jenny (Duke, '07). A 24th-round pick by the Kansas City Royals in the 2001 Major League Baseball Amateur Draft, J.D. played baseball in the Royals' minor league system. He is currently a professional scout for the Houston Astros. Jeff finished his baseball career at Duke in 2003 and signed a free agent contract with the Royals following his senior season. He recently graduated with his MBA from the prestigious Fuqua School of Business at Duke. Jenny, a four-year letterwinner on Duke's women's soccer team, will attend law school in the fall of 2007.
